

WHAT IS THE MID-COLUMBIA BALLET?

Mid-Columbia Ballet (MCB) is a non-profit organization established in 1973 to further the art of dance in the community. Three performing companies make up the organization: Junior, Intermediate, and Senior; each a building block for the next. MCB is overseen by a Board of Directors, an Artistic Director (Debra Pearse Rogo), an Administrative Assistant (Gaye Pearse-Wutzke), and a Director of Programs and Outreach (Renée Adams). Each platform of MCB not only provides exceptional performing opportunities to students but also builds structure and discipline into the lives of the children as they develop into strong leaders and intellectual participants in society. As a member of Regional Dance America/Pacific, MCB has been awarded the prestigious title of honor company yearly since 1992.

WHAT IS THE GUILD?

The Guild exists to provide financial and volunteer support to Mid-Columbia Ballet. Annually the Guild commits not only to raising money to help support the financial business of MCB, but also assumes responsibility for organizing many of the wonderful volunteers necessary to support productions such as The Nutcracker.

WHO JOINS THE GUILD?

ANYONE who wishes to ensure that the Tri-Cities community will always have an opportunity to enjoy the cultural experience of ballet should join the Guild. Many parents of dancers join the Guild to show their appreciation and support for MCB considering that the lack of any dancer fees associated with participation in the company is extremely unusual in comparable organizations across the United States. It is your support that will build a strong program for the future.
